[NEW MEANINGS EVERYDAY]

FIRST EDITION

GHALDEO

MY DEAR READERS,

AS these SECRETS of SHRI DNYANESHWARI would have been written for heartily encouragement. We must know that views on the ancient religion and literature of India in Maharashtra, and we are well aware that with regard to the recent date which we have assigned to the whole of what is commonly called classical Sanskrit Literature Dnyaneshwari. shri Dnyaneshwari Amrut Ganga world receives high trubles, a man becomes free, is happy, is not affected by actions and their results in this worldly life. Respectfully and regularly recited, steady his mind and satisfy himself and get Supreme state of Bliss and Supreme Knowledge of the nature of Shiva. There come to live all Gods, Serpents of divine nature and they immediately help the devotees.

Still I must confess that I did not succeed in bringing all I wished to say and more particularly the evidence on which some of my statements rested, up to the higher level of secret, and I have therefore added a number of notes containing the less organized matter which resisted as yet that treatment which is necessary before our studies can realise their highest purpose, that of feeding invigorating, and inspiriting the minds of others and making the text esier for reading and grasping its meaning.

SECRET OF SHREE DNYANESHWARI

[EVERYDAY NEW MEANINGS]

1. Om! Salutation to the primordial! you Are the subject of Vedas! Victory to You, Victory to you, who are known by Yourself only. you are Atman!

2. O God! you are Yourself Ganesha, Who illuminates the intelligence of all persons. I, the servant of Nivruti requests you to please pay attention to what I am describing.

3. Now I have bowed down to Goddess Sharada, who plays with novel, ever New speech, who is the damsel as The very image of cleverness and Arts, and who enchants the whole Universe.

4. In my heart Sadguru dwells and because of him I have transcended the flood of this worldly life, and therefore I have more respect for discrimination.

5. In all the beings and the objects, there is spirit hidden which the Wise Saints see and accept.

6. That which is created becomes destroyed, and what is destroyed is seen again. This process is Just like the line of pots on a Wheel on a well always rotating.

7. This is like walking by the right Path so that there is no harm, Or working in the light of a lamp, So that you do not stumble.

8. Similarly, O partha, [Man] when you do Your duty, there is fulfillment Of all your aspirations in a Very easy manner.

9. You should not feel comfortable If some happy conditions are there, and you should not be depressed if you suffer pain, and you should not consider Profit or loss, in your mind.

10. While calmly performing our own duty which is appropriate for us, we should quietly Sustain whatever will come to our lot.

11. We have considered deeply about all sides of this Problem, and we have found agreeable only one way; and that is that you should not neglect your own duty.

12. But keep no hope towards fruit and have nothing to do with evil actions. You have to take up only the right Action and that also without motive.

13. You should be expert in yoga, drop the attachment to fruit and O Arjuna, [Man] then perform all actions with Proper attention.

14. But there should not be a Feeling of elation when the work Accepted by you luckily becomes accomplished.

15. And if by any reason, it is not Successful and is thwarted, you should not also not Be disturbed by the discontent in it.

16. Please see. whatever action is Produced should be surrendered To the primordial Supreme being, Then it will naturally become Fulfilled and complete.

17. So, whatever is proper and Whatever presents itself as duty as the occasion demands, that You should perform without any motive.

18. Just see! He who performs Actions in accordance with the Ordianed sequence attains freedom In the very execution of these duties.

19. My dear, our own duty itself is a Constant sacrifice. Therefore, in Doing it, sin cannot get entry into it.

20. When this, our own duty is lost and there is interest and involvement In wrong action, then only there Is bondage of the worldly life.

21. Therefore, the performance of our Own duty is a continuous unbroken Sacrifice and he who performs It does not get himself bound.

22. The most important thing is that What a man does as his duty Is the very thing which God likes, And therefore God naturally becomes Pleased if that duty is done.

23. O pandava, [Man] to perform this duty In this manner is the real solace To the soul, and to perform it is The real service to Me in my Own nature as the Super- Atman.

24. If he is worshipped with flowers of The performance of ordained duties, He is very much pleased.

25. All these activities which come along To be done In the due course of Your life, should be offered to Me With pure devotion.

26. And never allow the pride to enter Into your mind that “a certain Duty is there and I will do it, And I am the doer.”

27. You should not be a slave to your Body. You should drop all the Desires, and then enjoy all the Things that will come along in the Course of natural events.

28. You should control and regulate your Mind and become inwardly steady, And let the organs of action conduct Themselves as they can among Various activities.

29. O the Ambidextrous warrior! [Man] Please Listen. Those who, having got the body to Their lot, complain that they have To work, or do something, are Really uneducated rustic people.

30. Please consider this – Janaka a king and Some others have without giving up The whole gamut of action, attained The bliss of liberation.

31. Know that even for those who have Accomplished everything and have No further personal desires, there Is some responsibility of duty for The sake of other people.

32. Just as a man who can see, Walks along with a blind man To guide him on the way, so, A wise man should show the True religion to an ignorant man, By his own example.

33. Here whatever the elders do, is Called Religion by others and all Common people follow the same Standard.

34. This is the most natural thing. Therefore action should not be Given up. The Saints should Perform their duty more earnestly.

35. Just a various activities in a house Take place in the light of a lamp, So the activities of Karmayogi go On in his body, without his being Involved.

36. He performs all actions but just As the leaf of a lotus is not Touched by water though it is in it, So the Karmayogi is not affected By his actions, though he is performing Them.

37. Such a Yogi has his body and people May call him happy or unhappy; but We feel that he is really Brahman.

38. His body is going about anywhere in The world outwardly, but the steadiness Of his mind is never broken.

39. O Arjuna, [Man] the state of balance of the mind Is the essence of yoga, wherin there Is unity of mind and intellect.

40. Please see. where there is unbroken Steadiness of intellect like this, all The sorrows of the worldly life have No entry in it.

41. It is like a man in whose stomach There is a fountain of nectar, does Not feel the pangs of hunger and Thirst.

42. Similarly, when heart is happy, Where is sorrow? There, the Intellect automatically rests in The Atman.

43. Just as a lamp kept in a place Where there is no wind, does not Flicker, so is the man of steady Mind, well – versed In the yoga.

44. He who does not feel sorry that He has to do some work, nor Is there any hope for fruit, In his mind.

45. And whose mind Is not contaminated With the desire that, "I shall Do a certain work, or shall Complete certain work which I have already started.

46. You should recognize such man As the Absolute Brahman in the Human form, who has burnt all Actions In the fire of knowledge.

47. For, they are the temples of Knowledge, and service is the Threshold of that temple. O! The Good warrior! [Man] You should attain It by approaching them.

48. You should surrender yourself at Their feet with your body, mind And soul, and render all service To Them, without being proud.

49. Then they will give, in answer to Your enquiry, that which you expect And when the mind Is endowed with That wisdom, it never projects any Thought.

50. When by the listening to the sentense, "YOU ARE THAT," there is light in the Consciousness, it becomes fealess and Identifies itself with Brahman.

51. Then you will see all the beings Together with yourself, to be continuously Dwelling in Me.

52. O Partha, [Man] and when thus there will Be the blessing of Guru, there will Be dawn of the light of knowledge And the darkness of confusion will Be dissipated.

53. Even if you are the storehouse of Blemish, an ocean of delusion, A mountain of confusion.

54. This all is very small as compared To the power of knowledge. such Is the pure and absolute power Of knowledge.

55. Sometimes it is somewhat expressed In the words spoken by the Guru, But really speaking it is already Self - evident In the heart of everybody And can be easily realized by One who earnestly wishes for it.

56. Tell me, though the smoke comes Out of fire, is the fire In the Smoke? Similarly I am not the Qualities though it appears that I am affected by them.

57. Now see that this body is formed By the five elements and is tied Tightly by the bondage of Karma, And it is continuously revolving on The wheel of birth and death.

58. This body is like a little ball Of butter, kept In the mouth of The fire of death, and is Prone to end in the short time, Which a fly takes to flutter its Tiny wings.

59. Such is the condition of this Body, but the Atman is Beginningless and therefore, Eternal and self – Sufficient.

60. Being abstract he is not with Parts or cannot be said to Be without parts. He is neither Dormant nor active. He is neither Thin nor fat.

61. Being Atman himself, he is Neither joyful or without joy, Neither one, nor varied; neither Free nor bound.

62. Dear Partha, [Man] those who are like The king swan in bifurcating the Atman and the non – Atman, Become that Supreme principle by Themselves, about which I have Said these things.

63. They hold Me within their heart As all – pervading In the world And having self – knowledge, they Live freely in all the three worlds.

64. He who thinks with certainty That this universe is his house Or he himself rather becomes The Universe.

65. O parth, [Man] over and above this If he is devoted to Me, I Hold him on My head as a Crown.

66. I may not be in Vaikuntha and At some times I may not be Seen in the disc of the Sun, and I may also go beyond the scope Of the minds of Yogis.

67. But Pandava! [Man] if I am not Found at these places, I will Be definitely found near these Devotees, where My name is Loudly being recited collectively.

68. They are continuously reciting the Names of Krishna, Hari, Govind, etc. in their poetry, and they Are freely discussing the spiritual And devotional subjects, singing Songs of My devotion and Praise My good qualities.

69. Thus you should peacefully offer to me whatever action is taking place, in a Peaceful mood of your mind, not thinking Whether it is complete or incomplete, Small or big.

70. He who has identified himself totally with the Universe and has, therefore, naturally lost any discriminative attitude, and thus his hatred or dislike is gone.

71. Dear Partha, [Man] these are the real devotees and the real Yogis because they are always eagerly devoted to Me.

72. Who talk only about Me, see Only my beautiful image, and Think about Me only with Their minds;

73. Whose ears are never empty, Being always full of My fame, And for whom, serving Me Only is the 'ornamate' on Their body;

74. They may be of such low castes, And may not be well – read and Learned, but they are not a Trifle less when compared With Me.

75. The mind may come and enter Into Me in any way and by any Pretext whatsoever, but when It enters, all the past things of The worldly life are not counted.

76. This is like the fact that ordinary Brooks are called brooks only so Long as they are not merged into Ganges, and when they are merged They are Ganges only from that moment.

77. Similarly all the differences like Kshatriya, (warriors), merchants, women Or Shoodras and low – caste, etc. are Valid so long as the people do not Become united with Me.

78. O Arjuna, [Man] therefore, I say that anyone, May he be born in sinner's family Or be a merchant, a shoodra or a Woman, if he worships Me, he comes To My abode.

79. Really, I care only for the devotion. I do not make distinction between A small offering or a great one. We are guests hungry for love that Is offered.

80. Actually, a leaf, flower or a fruit are only a means, a token of expressing devotion. We are concerned only about the sincere devotion, without reference to the things offered.

81. And he who has Me always before His eyes, forgets the separate beings As such and, therefore, having no Animosity about anybody, he worships Me in everything and everywhere.

82. As his consciousness is full of Juice of experience that all the Creation is God (Vasudeva), he is Surely the great devotee as well As a trully wise person.

83. You should make your mind Identical with Me, have love For My worship, and knowing Me To be everywhere, bow to Me.

84. In the process of concentration On Me, you should burn your Personal projection of mind. This is called performance of Sacrifice for Me.

85. Thus you will be saturated with Eager devotion to Me, and Then only you will become Myself. This is the secret in My heart which I have told You.

86. I swear that if you really Offer your heart and mind And intellect to Me as the Atman, you will definitely Atman, you will definitely Be one with Me.

87. Or if you are not able to offer To Me your consciousness with the Mind and intellect;

88. You can do one thing. At least for Some moments everyday turn Your mind and all your attention To Me.

89. Then for those moments, when Your mind is happily engaged With Me, it will have no liking For the sense objects

90. When this will happen, just like The moon wanig every Night in the darker fortnight, Gradually disappears on the last Night;

91. Your mind, gradually withdrawing Itself from the worldly affairs, And slowly entering into Me, Dear Arjuna, will become one With Me finally

92. Therefore, you will understand that there is nothing difficult, For study and practice. You Should therefore come unto Me By constant study.

93. One thing is very good about This mind. It become still where It has a liking for something. So, we should make it experience The sweetness of self – realization Off and on.

94. The powerful senses are withdrawn Into the mind, which Is unified With the vital breath and that Also starts being merged into the Sky.

95. We do not know how wonderfully The study of Yoga gives him this Stage and how the trance comes Enquiring about His home address!

96. Thus, only he who throws away These three vices of lust, anger And greed and stands firm in His decision, alone, can be Entitled for this great bliss.

97. Just see now in short – This Uttering the words OM TAT SAT Takes you to that Supreme State from which all this Manifest world receives Illumination.

98. Arjuna, [Man] you should come and Merge into Me just as a Golden bead is one with gold or Wave is one with water.

99. Therefore, to serve me by merging Into Me is very natural and Easy. You should serve like this So that you will attain the Divine wisdom as a matter of Course.

100. Therefore, one should freely open One's heart to a friend who Has a good mind, a clear intellect and who is not a critic and Is very loyal.

101. And just now there is nobody Other than you who has such Qualities, and therefore it is Not proper to keep any secret From you.

102. He who makes this Geeta which Is the secret of all Mantras, Easily embraced by the devotees Just as if the most loving Mother and her totally dependant Child are meeting each other.

103. So, he who does help My Devotees to meet this Geeta With that extreme love, becomes After his bodily death, one With Me only.

104. The Lord Shrikrishna, who is the Universally present, all – seeing and All- pervading God, said thus to Arjuna [Man].

105. This story is such that it should Be narrated without words, should Be understood without the Knowledge of senses, and the Essential principle of it should Be grasped even before it is Spoken.

106. This is such a philosophy which The ascetics are found of, Which is the subject of Experience of saints, and where Those who are masters of The experience of unity with THAT, always get themselves Absorbed.

107. This is the juice of all the Spiritual literature, by name Geeta, by learning which the Jewel which is Atman is Directly perceptible.

108. Just as the cow gives milk For the calf only but that Milk meets the need of all The household, so Geeta though Taught to Arjuna, [Man] as apparently Seems to be, has actually Emancipated the whole world.

109. Similarly if you worship Me In All forms and beings your ego Will be destroyed and you will be Having the view that Atman is everything and thus you will be merge into Me.

110. TO consider every being as God, is The real Yoga of My devotion; please Know this definitely.

UNIVERSAL PRAYERS BY THE SAINT DHYANESHWARA

111. Now, may the Universal God be Pleased by this sacrifice, where The oblations are of the speech, And by being so pleased, may He give Me the following boon Of His grace.

112. I request that the evil of the Villains may be gone. Their interest In good deeds may increase, and All the being should have soulful Friendship with each other.

113. The darkness of sins may be Dissipated. Let there be the dawn Of performance of our own duty, In the Universe, and then every Being may receive what he really desires.

114. Let the hosts Saints, who are Having real faith in God, and Who constantly pour down all The auspicious things on the world, Continuously meet all these beings.

115. The Saints who are the groups Of moving divine 'WISH – TREES' The Towns of living gems of Chintamani, and the speaking Oceans' of nectar.

116. Who are Moons without stigma, Suns without heat, may be Related to all at all times.

117. Finally, let the beings from the Three worlds be completely Happy in all respects and Worship continuously the Primordial God, the divine Purusha.

118. And especially in this world, Those who live by the Tenets of this book may be Victorious over the visible as Well as the invisible worlds."

119. Upon this prayer, the great King, the Lord of the Universe Said, "So be it. Let this be The endowment of my grace!" By this boon, Dnyanadev become Very Happy, Very Happy, Very Happy.

120. Filling the cups of my hands Which are like the cups of faith And devotion, with the loose flowers Of ovis, I have humbly offered Them at the two feet of the Universal God.
